goodlife
INNOVATIONS

Clarification to Section 4 – Technical Documentation

GoodLife does not have a separate technical documentation package available for distribution. The statement in Section 4 promising architecture diagrams, interface specifications, sample payloads, a supported-device list, workflow descriptions, and test-access arrangements is therefore withdrawn.

GoodLife's technical team has reviewed the published requirements and determined that they provide a reasonable basis for proposing a compatible solution and pricing the requested scope. Proposers should identify all assumptions, required permissions, dependencies, integration work, associated costs, and any matters requiring verification during implementation.

Proposers may submit specific technical questions to arielnichols@mygoodlife.org. Any additional information or clarification affecting proposal preparation will be made available to all prospective proposers.